Environetics' MEP Engineering Team Expands

Environetics is proud to announce the additions of Nile Behnam, Jeff Ohlinger, and Navil Christian to the firm's MEP Engineering team. Nile brings over 25 years of experience in electrical design including normal and emergency power distribution, ups, telecommunications, and lighting design for the government, pharmaceutical, academic, corporate, and healthcare markets. Jeff, a graduate of University of South Florida, offers over 8 years of experience in mechanical engineering for academic, commercial, healthcare and data center clients. Navil, previously with Ewing Cole, Toll Brothers and Amtrak, is a graduate of Temple University with over 8 years of experience in mechanical engineering.

"The addition of these three motivated and capable professionals will enhance our already technically strong MEP team," says Michael Sidlo, Principal, MEP Engineering.
